Andrew D. Verrier

ASSOCIATE

EXPERIENCE

Andrew D. Verrier focuses his practice on complex professional liability matters. His practice has also included employment, casualty, and premises liability-based insurance matters, defending clients in cases dealing with discrimination, unjust termination, slander and libel, and harassment claims. Andrew has experience working on cases at the state and federal level, regularly writing motions, reports, and memoranda, conducting and analyzing depositions and complex discovery materials, as well as preparing and serving all manner of pleadings, motions, petitions, and writs.

Andrew completed his undergraduate studies at Dickinson College and earned his J.D. from Drexel University's Thomas R. Kline School of Law. Prior to his work in private practice, he served as a clerk for the First Judicial District of Pennsylvania, assisting the Hon. Roxanne Covington in drafting judicial opinions for appeal, legal research, and presenting written and oral arguments to aid in the determination of legal issues.
