EXPERIENCE

Dema Alqudwah dedicates her practice to workers' compensation law, counseling and defending employers, insurers, and third-party administrators throughout North Carolina. She is involved in every stage of the workers' compensation claims-handling process, including strategy, discovery, depositions, hearings and trials.

Dema draws on her experience as an assistant district attorney in the Wake County District Attorney's Office, where she handled matters ranging from traffic cases to misdemeanor crimes to domestic violence. While attending the Campbell University School of Law, Dema took part in various legal internships including at law firms and in the office of the in-house counsel for Blue Cross Blue Shield of North Carolina.
