SPECIAL COUNSEL

EXPERIENCE

As a seasoned litigator who also served for years as corporate counsel, Kristi Midboe Miller provides exceptional strategic value to Goldberg Segalla clients. Not only does Kristi know how to build winning defense plans and persuasive arguments, she also understands the priorities, internal pressures and risk tolerances of corporations – because she has lived it. This dual perspective allows her to tailor legal strategies that maximize both legal savvy and commercial viability.

Kristi began her legal career practicing product liability, environmental and commercial litigation at several prominent law firms. She has extensive experience developing and implementing science-based defense strategies in high-profile mass toxic tort and environmental litigation. She has also handled complex multi-jurisdictional litigation for pharmaceutical and other product manufacturers, and managed cases involving compliance issues and a broad range of other substantive disciplines.

Before joining Goldberg Segalla, Kristi was accountable for full-spectrum legal advice and guidance as general counsel of a portfolio of domestic and international early-stage businesses focused on emergent, software-centered technologies at a Fortune 50 multi-national provider of technologies and communications solutions. Having been a client, she understands the steps law firms can take to make their clients' businesses run more smoothly.
