uninsured for severe personal injury claims arising from malfunctioning radiator

- Dismissal on summary judgment following extensive discovery (involving 73 days of depositions) of fraud claims asserted against insurance brokerage division of internationally known financial services firm in a suit alleging a scheme to defraud real estate developer involving complicated advance fee loan scam, resulting in actual damages totaling $38 million
 - Dismissal of claims against insurance broker for alleged failure to advise in connection with purchase of coverage for art gallery after it sustained substantial losses as a result of agreeing to indemnify purchaser of famous artist's work if it's provenance was successfully challenged (affirmed on appeal to Appellate Division, First Department)

Insurance Agents and Brokers

- Successful defense of negligence, gross negligence, breach of fiduciary duty, unjust enrichment, and false and deceptive advertising claims based on alleged misconduct by a large, national insurance brokerage which offered a variety of risk management services to high net worth couple who had used the broker to purchase insurance for approximately 15 years. Plaintiffs had suffered a multi-million dollar loss as the result of a cyber hack into their email account, leading to the wiring of funds as payment towards false invoices their assistant was instructed to pay by the criminal conspirators who had hacked into the account. At the outset of the case, Peter obtained dismissal of plaintiffs' unjust enrichment and false and deceptive advertising claims, and obtained a second dismissal of those claims after they were re-pleaded in the plaintiff's amended complaint. Peter obtained summary judgment of the remaining claims after conclusion of discovery, which was focused on developing a factual record establishing the absence of the requisite "special relationship" between the plaintiffs and the defendant giving rise to a heightened duty of care necessary to successful prosecution of those claims.

Insurance and Reinsurance Coverage

- Summary judgment award voiding over $200 million in reinsurance due to the fraudulent concealment of a cedent's insolvency (affirmed by the Appellate Division, First Department and the New York Court of Appeals)
 - Decision (noted on the cover of the New York Law Journal) finding that it was the duty of an insurer to defend breach of fiduciary duty claims made against a law firm on the part of a legal malpractice insurer, despite the fact that only fraudulent conduct was specifically alleged

Legal Malpractice

- Dismissal (and affirmance by the NY Appellate Division, First Department) of legal malpractice claims against a law firm for allegedly making a disastrous "tactical" decision contrary to the client's wishes
- Dismissal of legal malpractice action against New Jersey based lawyer brought in New York state court on grounds of lack of personal jurisdiction, notwithstanding evidence of work periodically performed in New York, including litigating in New York state and federal courts; once severed from larger case alleging conspiracy to defraud, never further pursued
- Minimal dollar value settlement of $15 million claim alleging malpractice in the handling of maritime arbitration, after deposition of plaintiff's renowned ethics expert

- No contribution settlement of alleged Judiciary Law Section 487 claim in alleged multi-million fraud involving alleged misuse of the courts to pursue and conceal same, following filing of motion to dismiss
 - Successful argument of appeal to Second Circuit of case involving dismissal of claims against lawyer for alleged participation in international fraud scheme for failure to name the proper corporate party with standing, even after proper party was identified and plaintiff's counsel sought permission to amend, for failure to do so in keeping with Court's instructions regarding final amendments to Complaint, despite District Court acknowledging that the dismissal was quite likely to result in a fraud going unpunished

Municipalities and Public Entities

- Dismissal of the First Amendment claims of a high school art teacher disciplined for classroom "speech" in the form of a marketing handout soliciting student participation in a planned art school involving nude models (affirmed by the Second Circuit)
 - Dismissal of a First Amendment claim arising from disciplining of an elementary school student for writing a story about murder and sex involving other students (affirmed by the Second Circuit)
 - Dismissal of claims against a social services agency for violation of due process in connection with the removal of children from foster parents (affirmed by the Second Circuit)
 - Dismissal of a Section 1983 claim for regulatory taking and defamation in connection with a town's issuance of notices of hearings for engaging in regulated activity on wetlands without a permit
 - Dismissal of wrongful death claims (affirmed by the NY Appellate Division, Second Department) against a municipality for allegedly failing to protect two young women who had been walking on railroad tracks from an oncoming train because a police officer who had allegedly directed them into harm's way had not assumed a "special duty" to protect them

Commercial/Miscellaneous

- Dismissal of libel claims, both affirmed in precedent-setting decisions by the NY Appellate Division, First Department, based on a psychiatric evaluation report to an insurer as protected opinion, and based on a court-ordered report on the mental status of a criminal defendant by a social worker as protected by quasi judicial proceeding immunity
- Decision upholding the standing of a parent corporation to assert RICO claims for injuries to diminution in value of stock caused by racketeering activity directed at a subsidiary
