Civil Litigation and Trial

Ryan C. Mahoney

PARTNER

EXPERIENCE

Ryan C. Mahoney is an accomplished litigator whose experience covers a wide range of civil matters. Throughout his career, Ryan has represented corporations, municipalities, and insurers in an array of civil litigation, including cases involving premises liability, product liability, New York State Labor Law claims, and complex municipal tort claims. He is adept at handling cases from inception through trial, and strategically evaluates matters at each stage of litigation to deliver the best results for his clients.

Before joining private practice, Ryan was an assistant bureau chief in the New York City Law Department. In this role, he supervised a team of attorneys and was responsible for all phases and aspects of litigation, coordinating defense strategy on each case.
